COME WALK WITH ME NIGHT OF PRAYER

with Irish tenor, Mark Forrest

Friday, March 7, 2025 at 7:00 PM

St. Patrick Parish looks forward to welcoming back Irish tenor, Mark Forrest for a very special Lenten evening of prayer and spiritual reflection.

The Come Walk With Me evening is a time for us to reflect on our personal relationship with Jesus Christ. During the evening, the blessed sacrament will be exposed and Irish tenor Mark Forrest will take you through an evening of music, reflection, and healing. Consider taking an hour with the Lord as he invites you to a closer walk with him.

Please save the date and join us. All are welcome. While there is no fee to attend, a free will offering will be collected at the end of the program. Thank you.

Reflection by Rev. Leonard N. Peterson

I truly believe that a turning point in one's life comes when one adds a cardiologist to the list of one's doctors. I have had one for nine years now. Call it a sign that, in golfing terms, I've come to "the back nine." So be it.

During one recent checkup, I told my man that I consider him "the archbishop" of the other medics. As a good Catholic gentleman, he chuckled at the reference but did admit that "when the motor malfunctions, the car definitely won't move."

St. Luke, an able doctor himself, cites our hearts as the locus of all our moral decisions, adding that from its "fullness the mouth speaks." He certainly knew the physical importance of the organ, albeit with nothing like an EKG machine at his disposal. It was the spiritual significance of the heart that made his case for it to be the energy and driving force behind all our moral decisions and their consequences. For example, we can see that judging other people for their faults, a perennially popular Christian sin, begins in the heart.

This late Winter Sunday finds us in the very "vestibule" of the great Lenten season that arrives this Wednesday. It's a time for serious introspection and reflection, a thorough examination of conscience. Call it a spiritual heart exam.

"In the heart's fullness," St. Luke writes, we find the source of our behavior. That means, among other things, that our heart is where all our faulty decisions emanate. About this, or that, or the other thing. About him or her, our neighbor. About our practical decisions regarding a Christian lifestyle. Ultimately about our love and loyalty to Christ Jesus our Lord.

Lent is not intended to sour our late Winter mood by a decision to deprive ourselves of desserts, or to cancel chocolate and cocktails for six weeks. However, I must add that fasting is recommended by many holy saints as a good "ammo" to shoot down selfishness.

What Lent is primarily about is our coming face to face with faults and sins we tend to ignore because they make us uncomfortable. They caused Our Lord's crucifixion. It's time for an honest appraisal of how we are doing or not doing with living a gospel-centered life. Lent asks us, in light of our Lord's suffering and death, where some personal reform is needed.

Above all, I think Lent urges us to make our partnership with God each day of our lives something real. That could be described, in the present context, as something heartfelt.

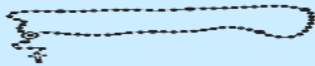

Have a good Lent, with your heart in it.

ADULT EDUCATION Understanding Classical Catholic Education Reading and Discussion Group

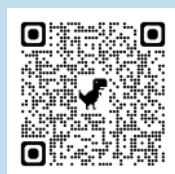

What is "classical" education? What did wise men-such as Aristotle, Moses, St. Augustine, St. Albert the Great, St.

Thomas Aquinas, St. John Henry Newman-what did they study in their youth? Is such an education possible today for our children? Where did modern education come from? Our group will be reading and discussing the book Understanding Classical Catholic Education by William C. Michael, OP. This discussion is intended for parents who would like to learn more about classical education, the history of Catholic education, and the educational opportunities offered by the Classical Liberal Arts Academy.

We will have monthly in-person meetings at Sacred Heart, 2nd Thursday of each month, 7:30PM-9:00PM starting March 13th in the café of the Parish Center.

Discussion will be led by Mr. Jared Haselbarth, OP.
